- Communicating our progress
- Communicating our failed attempts

Why Travel Diaries?

- Travel Diaries is a web-based platform for travelers to document and share their journeys.
- As beginners in full-stack development, there's great potential for extensive learning in this field.

Objectives

- Gaining the experience of developing a working web application.
- Getting better at Team work.
- Getting better at succinct communication.
- Learning to work with APIs

Features

- User Registration and Authentication
- Trip Management
- Social Networking
- Chat Functionality
- Budget Management
- Trip Memories Pages (Photos and Media Upload)

Demo

Project Timeline - July

- Methodology:
    - Adopted a self-study approach to learn front-end development
- What went wrong in the Methodology
    - Lack of prioritization
    - Little communication
    - No clear deadlines
    - Vague task assignment and diluted learning

Project Timeline - August

- How we improved
  - Assigned tasks and set deadlines
  - Alloted some time to the project each day
- Methodology Adopted
  - Focused on front-end learning by building smaller projects
  - Communicating our progress
  - Designed prototypes using Figma

Challenges

- Covering college backlogs and impending end-sems
- Comparing our project progress with others
- Miscommunications within the team
- Unable to divide time properly amongst DSA, college and project work

Takeaways

- Feedback and iterations
- Documenting task assignment
- Working steadily

Next Steps

- Completing the frontend
- Learning and Implementing APIs
- Begin learning Django for backend

Thank You!
